

Overwhelmed? The Fine Arts of Independence... and Accepting Help by award-winning author / stress-relief expert Susie Mantell

Accepting help with grace is an art. Denying yourself help when you need some is just plain, well, stressful. Friends and loved ones can be a wonderful support. We all need a little help when it comes to preventing, reducing and releasing the stress that has become pervasive in 21st century life. Hopefully, we're also helpful to others. Let's explore how this compassionate exchange is actually healthy and, in fact, beneficial for optimal stress-reduction.

We live a lifetime becoming independent. Through sheer determination or by necessity, from the time we crawl, walk, or hold a cup, we hear, "Yaaay- -See how independent?" [applause] We ride a 2-wheeler, drive, graduate, work, excel, travel. [More "Yaaay."] But somewhere along the way, it all backfires. Accepting help becomes foreign, uncomfortable, impossible for some.

I hear clients describe a sense of feeling overwhelmed. While some tasks must be done solo and others with lightening speed when facing a deadline, it's worthwhile to ask ourselves, "Could someone help? Could somebody drive the kids? Shovel the walk? Start dinner? Return the videos?"

Have you ever seen a stranger with arms full, struggling with the door? What did you do? How did that feel? When a neighbor's child fell off his bike, did you run out with a band-aid and a cookie, brush him off, and help him back on his way? Of course you did. Ever visit a friend in the hospital? Few enjoy hospitals, but did you kind of like yourself a little for doing it? [Human Nature Hint: It is infinitely easier to accept help when we have recently extended a hand.]

10 Tips for Getting Help When You Need Some:

1. Do all you can for yourself, but within reason.
2. Set realistic goals. Reassess as necessary.
3. Need a hand with something? Remember how it felt to help. Give others that pleasure.

© 2000, 2008, 2010 Susie Mantell, Relax Intuit™ LLC. All Rights Reserved. Federal law prohibits use of this content in whole or in part without the express written consent of Relax Intuit™ LLC. For permission to use, please email the complete text of the specific article and its requested use to info@relaxintuit.com. Award-winning stress-relief expert Susie Mantell is the author of the exquisitely soothing relaxation audiobook, "Your Present: A Half-Hour of Peace," clinically approved to relieve symptoms associated with health-related, work-related, chronic and traumatic stress. Featured in The Los Angeles Times, NBC, ABC, CBS-TV, Town & Country, The American Pain Society, Hazelden and The Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation, listeners include The Mayo Clinic, Memorial Sloan-Kettering, The Betty Ford Center, V.A. Hospitals and Canyon Ranch ("#1 Spa"--Conde Nast Traveler). Customizing stress-reduction for Fortune 500 companies, distinguished medical centers and spas, Mantell's multi-sensory, mind-body techniques appear in national media, medical and corporate publications. Susie Mantell's stress-relief & wellness tips are intended as an adjunct to, not a substitute for, professional health care. Order "Your Present: A Half-Hour of Peace" and enjoy more of Susie Mantell's stress-relief tips at www.relaxintuit.com

CONTINUED

Overwhelmed? The Fine Arts of Independence... and Accepting Help
by award-winning author / stress-relief expert Susie Mantell

4. Think about who could help get this done.
5. What affordable resources are available? Ask the high school guidance office for good kids looking for jobs.
6. Is a barter possible?
7. Ask for some help with a confident, open smile.
8. Express your appreciation in payment or barter, a note or a call.
9. If possible, return the kindness.
10. No way to do so? What goes around comes around. Put it in a 'favors bank,' and spend it on someone else.

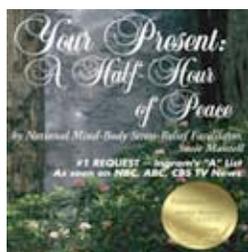

Pop Quiz:

When others offer, can you accept with a smile?
And if no one knows you need help, can you ask?

This Week:

1. Help three people in some small way.
2. Exercise your acceptance muscle: Ask for one small favor, just for practice.
3. Create a Go-To list of people you can call upon for various needs.

© 2000, 2008, 2010 Susie Mantell, Relax Intuit™ LLC. All Rights Reserved. Federal law prohibits use of this content in whole or in part without the express written consent of Relax Intuit™ LLC. For permission to use, please email the complete text of the specific article and its requested use to info@relaxintuit.com. Award-winning stress-relief expert Susie Mantell is the author of the exquisitely soothing relaxation audiobook, "Your Present: A Half-Hour of Peace," clinically approved to relieve symptoms associated with health-related, work-related, chronic and traumatic stress. Featured in The Los Angeles Times, NBC, ABC, CBS-TV, Town & Country, The American Pain Society, Hazelden and The Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation, listeners include The Mayo Clinic, Memorial Sloan-Kettering, The Betty Ford Center, V.A. Hospitals and Canyon Ranch ("#1 Spa"--Conde Nast Traveler). Customizing stress-reduction for Fortune 500 companies, distinguished medical centers and spas, Mantell's multi-sensory, mind-body techniques appear in national media, medical and corporate publications. Susie Mantell's stress-relief & wellness tips are intended as an adjunct to, not a substitute for, professional health care. Order "Your Present: A Half-Hour of Peace" and enjoy more of Susie Mantell's stress-relief tips at www.relaxintuit.com

END OF THIS TIP##